The Street Car Strike

INAUGURATED IN CHICAGO ACCORDING TO PROGRAM.

MUCH BITTER FEELING AGAINST THE CABLE ROAD SYNDICATE.

Thousands Compelled to Walk to Their Business, Although Express Wagons and Other Vehicles Were Rigged Up With Seats and Run By the Strikers—Gripmen Arrive From Philadelphia.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—The strike of street car conductors, drivers and cable gripmen on the North Side was inaugurated according to program. Not a car was run in the entire north division. The sidewalks were filled with pedestrians, headed for the business portion of the city, at an early hour.

Express wagons and rattletraps of all descriptions, on which temporary seats were fixed, were run by the strikers and others and were patronized to their fullest capacity.

Much bitter feeling against President Yerkes and the cable road syndicate, growing out of the poor services rendered by them to their patrons, has been brought to a focus by the strike, and the public comment resulting is not favorable to the company.

The Daily News quotes a recent interview with President Yerkes, in which, replying to the query, "Is there any danger of a strike?" he says:

"Not the slightest. The men have not enough ambition to strike. That's between you and me. Their spirit is broken. Did you ever notice one of our conductors or gripmen? They will stand anything. They are used to it. They have been cursed so much by the passengers that meekness is second nature with them. Some weeks ago a committee called upon me with a bill of grievances. I told them they were mistaken and they believed it."

Friday night, when the downtown streets were soaking and sloppy from the cold, driving October rain, which had been falling incessantly for more than twelve hours, the piercing shouts of the newsboys announcing that the strike of the North Side car men had begun carried alarm and consternation to thousands of wet and shivering shop girls, clerks, mechanics, factory employes and business men who were hurrying to busy corners to board the cars for home. For half an hour or more no cable cars appeared in sight and the report seemed to be well founded. The horse cars continued to run at intervals, however, and the rush to these was so great that not one-fourth the people could be accommodated.

Those who could afford the luxury engaged hansom cabs and other vehicles to draw them home. The poor shop girls were the greatest sufferers, and many a cold will doubtless result from their long exposure in the rain, hundreds of them being insufficiently clad and without any protection from the stormy weather. But the alarm was a false one. The strike had not been inaugurated. The delay and stopping of the cable cars for half an hour was due to one of the accidents with which the line has been cursed almost daily and sometimes hourly since it was constructed about a year ago.

In this connection it may be stated a suspicion exists that the strike is regarded as a boon by President Yerkes, as affording an opportunity to alter the mechanism of the whole system. For this purpose a stoppage of some weeks is necessary, and could now be had without the odium which such a confession of failure would otherwise evoke. Late Friday night President Yerkes announced that while an effort would be made to run street cars on all the lines the cable would, as he put it, be abandoned altogether for the present. Early in the morning relays of Pinkerton men were sent over to the North Side and put on duty about the car barns and the cable headquarters.

The first installment of President Yerkes' imported Philadelphia cable car men arrived at 9:30 Friday night via the Pittsburgh & Fort Wayne road. There were about twenty-five in the party, and they were conducted by a gentleman connected with the Philadelphia road, who took them to the Bartholdi hotel. It is understood from this party that 125 more men will arrive from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

"We were not asked to sign any contract," said one; "they took most of us right from the cars and put 'extra' men in our place; every man there would have come willingly if there had been enough 'extras.' Our way was paid, and it promised to be a pleasant change." As nearly as could be ascertained not many of the men are Knights of Labor. One of the men stated to a reporter that they are to receive $2.75 a day for twelve hours' work, and the company is to pay their board.

YELLOW FEVER.

It Gets a Strong Foothold at Decatur.

Six Deaths at Jacksonville. BIRMINGHAM, Oct. 8.—A special from Decatur, Ala., says that seven new cases of fever developed Friday. There was one death. Warm weather has arrived again, and it is feared that the worst is yet to come.

Six Deaths at Jacksonville. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 8.—There were six deaths from yellow fever and fifty-two new cases Friday.

Says He Was Robbed of $4,000.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 8.—William Endley, an Englishman, who claims to represent a New York land company, arrived in this city Thursday night from Walker county, and claims that he was robbed Friday of $4,000 by two highwaymen. While making collections for his company he was compelled to walk a few miles into the country, and on his return he was overtaken in a wood by three men, on horseback, who robbed him.

A Broker Disappears.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—William H. Ingham, of the brokerage office of W. H. Ingham & Company, No. 38 Broadway, has disappeared and his place of business is closed. He is said to have used the "speculative syndicate" scheme to swindle victims out of $100,000 or more.

THE WASHINGTON MONUMENT.

In a Short Time It Will Be Reopened. Congress to Make an Appropriation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—For a year and a half the stately Washington monument has been closed to visitors because congress has failed to provide any appropriation for its protection from the vandalism of sight-seers. Its closing was ordered by the board in charge, as the defacement of the interior walls was continuous and many cases irreparable. According to the original design the interior was to be embellished by mural tablets, and the lower third was thus decorated.

Although an elevator had been provided there was no appropriation to run it, and the visitors used the stairways. The result was that chunks were knocked from the bas reliefs and carried away as souvenirs. Inscriptions were defaced, and every possible outrage that could be committed against these tablets was accomplished. The most of them are beyond either restoration or repair, and what was intended as an artistic and historical feature of the monument has become its great disfigurement.

The present congress has been more thoughtful than the previous ones, and within a few days an appropriation of $10,000, embodied in the sundry civil bill, will become available for the purpose of accommodating visitors and protecting the monument. The idle elevator machinery will be cleaned up and put in service, and the stairways will not be used. This will keep visitors out of the reach of the interior walls while ascending the shaft, which will be lighted by electric lamps.

No guides, hawkers of souvenirs, or any sort of fakirs, will be permitted to prey on visitors, and employees are prohibited from accepting tips. It is the intention to mount the telescopes at the top for the free use of spectators as soon as congress can be induced to furnish the necessary appropriation.

ACCIDENT AT A FAIR.

During a Chariot Race the Horses Dash Among the Spectators.

KUTZTOWN, Pa., Oct. 8.—The Roman chariot races at the fair grounds here Friday resulted in a frightful accident. Two chariots, each drawn by four horses hitched abreast, had made a circuit of the one-third mile course, when one of the teams became unmanageable and dashed into the crowd of spectators. David Swan, seventy, was fatally hurt. His grandson, Walter Treichler, was with him, and was wedged under the wheels of the chariot. His injuries are severe. Miss Annie Fegley was hurt about the head and neck, the wheels having passed over her head, and her condition is critical. Miss Mary Barto was trampled by the horses, and the wheels of the chariot also passed over her body. Her injuries are principally internal. A young man named Rittinger had his hips and spine injured, and nearly all his clothes were torn from his person. W. B. Bast, a telegrapher, was knocked down by the horses and cut about the face. A number of children, whose names could not be learned, were run over and sustained bruises and contusions.

MURDEROUS TRAIN HANDS.

In a Quarrel a Passenger is Thrown From a Train and Killed.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 8.—Passengers on a Northern Pacific train tell of a horrible deed which occurred west of Fargo. They say two men, apparently harvest hands, boarded the train at a small station and engaged in an altercation with the train hands over their fare. One of the men was thrown from the rapidly moving train, while the other clung to the seat and begged for mercy. The passengers interfered and saved his life. The train was then backed up and the victim was found. He presented a horrible sight, being a mangled, shapeless mass. As far as can be learned there have been no arrests made.

Robbed in a Passenger Coach.

READING, Pa., Oct. 8.—A daring robbery was perpetrated on a passenger train of the Philadelphia & Reading road. The train had just left Kutztown, this county, when four men seized Daniel Geist, a wealthy farmer, who was seated in a car in which there were a number of other passengers, bound him with a rope, rifled his pockets, then jumped from the train and escaped. Geist was too much frightened to raise an alarm, and the work of the thieves was over so quickly that the passengers were not aware of the crime until the men had escaped. The thieves evidently expected to find a large amount of money on Geist, but they secured only $18.

Wreck on the Cairo Short Line.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8.—There was a serious wreck on the Cairo Short Line, five miles from Belleville, Ill., Friday morning. A regular freight, southbound, was standing on the main track, when a special freight, northbound, dashed into it. Ten cars were wrecked, and Messrs. A. J. and Jefferson Burgess, of Havana, Ill., who were riding in a car with some valuable horses, were seriously hurt and several of their horses killed. All the train men escaped, except a brakeman named Barton, who was buried under the wreck.

Two Unknown Germans Drowned.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Two men jumped into a sailboat at the life-saving station Friday noon and started for south Chicago. When off Thirty-third street their boat capsized and soon after sunk with them, the spectators along the shore being powerless to make a move for their rescue. A strong north-easterly gale was blowing. Although the life-saving station was immediately notified they arrived too late to be of any service. The men were unknown Germans apparently about forty-five years of age.

A Great Irrigation Scheme.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—A special to the World from El Paso, Tex., says: A movement is on foot here to construct a monster dam sixty feet high, in a pass a few miles above El Paso, so as to form a great reservoir, in which the waters of the Rio Grande will be stored up for irrigating the valley for fifty miles below the city. This would submerge about fifty thousand acres of land, scarcely an acre of which is at present cultivated. At a public meeting of citizens last night committees were appointed to raise a fund to bring a competent engineer here to investigate and report on the feasibility of the plan.

Annexation Feeling.

IT GAINS STRENGTH IN CANADA DAY BY DAY.

THE QUESTION ONE THAT CANNOT BE HURRIED.

When It Does Come It Will Be the Work of Natural Forces, and Not the Outcome of Invitations—The Herculean Task Undertaken By Sir John Macdonald Has Not, as Yet, Been Accomplished.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Oct. 8.—The question of the annexation of Canada to the United States has all at once been brought into prominence throughout this country by the speech of Senator Sherman, in which he offers Canada political union in settlement of the issues in dispute between it and the United States.

It is announced in Toronto, on Mr. Sherman's authority, that the senate committee on foreign relations, of which he is chairman, will take the matter up at the next session of congress. Mr. Blaine, in passing through this town the other day en route for the west, made a short speech on annexation, in which he said the United States was willing to admit Canada into the union, but that Canada herself must make the first overtures.

In the county of Essex, opposite Detroit, Mr. Solomon White, a prominent Tory politician, who formerly represented that place in the Ontario legislature, has just come out flat-footed for annexation. In fact, in all the border counties in this province the annexation feeling is strong. In this part of the country, which is traversed by the Canadian Southern railroad—a Vanderbilt road—it is a rare thing to find a man who is satisfied with the present condition of affairs. The railway has introduced American ideas, American ways of doing business, and a feeling that Canada is wasting her time in trying to establish a separate nation.

It is safe to say that annexation, when it comes about, will be the work of natural forces, and not the outcome of invitations, however well meant, from the politicians of the United States. The Canadian confederation consists of a number of scattered provinces forming a populated fringe about a hundred miles deep along the whole northern frontier of the United States. The confederation was established in 1867. Prior to that the provinces of upper and lower Canada, now known as Ontario and Quebec, had been united. But the friction between the two races grew so intense that government became impossible. A scheme for bringing in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick was then projected, and after the usual preliminaries, it received the approval of the British parliament.

At a later day Prince Edward Island, British Columbia, Manitoba and the territories lying between Manitoba and the Rocky mountains were admitted. Sir John Macdonald, the leading mind in the confederation movement, then set to work to solidify the union thus accomplished on paper. The task before him was a herculean one. He had to promote trade among a number of communities, each having its all lying within the same zone, as if nature had deliberately intended that they should not trade with one another.

Then he had to maintain peace and concord between two separate and distinct races—the English, of the English provinces, and the French, of French Canada—each with its own language, with its own schools, with its own code of laws, with its own ideal of the future. Lastly, while making a nation out of this potpourri, he had, if possible, to offset or diminish the enormous attraction exerted by the United States upon the incohesive mass.

It may be said, without fear of contradiction, that although he brought to his work a keen intellect and a good store of political knowledge, Sir John has failed at every point. The race question has broken out afresh. The French, who number two in five of the population, are growing more French and less Canadian every year, and as a consequence the friction between the two elements is rapidly bringing the machine to a standstill just as it did before. Inter-provincial trade has been encouraged by the construction of state railways, but it has refused to materialize. The two provinces of Ontario and Quebec, so far as they are of any value to Nova Scotians as a trading place, might just as well be situated in the heart of China.

It has been found impossible to promote a profitable trade between Ontario and Manitoba, which are divided by 1,500 miles of rock and water, or between Ontario and British Columbia, which are still farther apart. Indeed, there is scarcely any trade of value between Ontario and Quebec. The French habitant does not buy much from outsiders.

He grows his own tobacco, "moonshines" his own whisky in spite of the revenue laws, makes his own "letouffe lu pais," a sort of woolen cloth, by means of the old spinning wheel and hand loom; raises his own sugar by growing maple trees, makes his own boots (beef moccasins), and even grows his own tea, or rather uses the wild mint plant found in swamps and beaver meadows. It is needless to add that Sir John has not succeeded in fostering a National spirit among these divided communities.

An Annexation Campaign.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—An Ottawa special to the Tribune says Mr. Sherman's statement on the relations of the United States with Canada is accepted by statesmen and public men generally, irrespective of party, throughout the Dominion, as an intimidation that leading Republicans have decided that Canada must be annexed or fight for her independent National existence. It is expected that annexation clubs will be started shortly throughout Ontario, Quebec and the maritime provinces.

Leading imperial federation managers have resolved to push the immediate extension of the league to fight the annexationists. The question of annexation is coming rapidly to the front, and showing out of sight the proposal of commercial union and unrestricted reciprocity. An annexation campaign this fall in preparation for the meeting of parliament in January is now considered inevitable.

AN EMINENT OCULIST DEAD.

Dr. E. Williams of Cincinnati, Dies in Hazelwood, Pennsylvania.

HAZELWOOD, Oct. 8.—Dr. Ekanale Williams, the celebrated oculist, of Cincinnati, died Friday in this city at the home of his friend Dr. H. Waller.

With the passing away of Dr. Williams the medical profession loses one of its brightest lights, and the world one of its most distinguished men in his particular specialty. He was born in Indiana sixty-six years ago, and was educated there until he began the study of medicine. This he did at Louisville, Ky., and graduated from the college there. After practicing for a time in Indiana he went to Europe and continued his studies in Germany and France. He mastered the language of each of those countries. About 1854 he returned and began the practice of his profession in Cincinnati, where he remained until overcome by the affliction that caused his death.

In the medical world Dr. Williams stood for years at the head of oculists. He was in Europe when Helmholtz discovered the ophthalmoscope, and he was the first one to introduce its use and application in England. The doctor was placed in charge of the eye and ear clinic in the greatest London medical college, and his fame soon became world-wide. He was the father of ophthalmology in the United States. When he advocated separate treatment and scientific consideration of diseases of the eye and ear the old practitioners laughed at him, but he lived to see his claims recognized. The distinguished man was the author of many able papers on the treatment of the eye and ear, and he was until a short time before his illness a valued contributor to the medical journals of this country. He made three trips to Europe, and was received with distinguished consideration.

Dr. Williams was honored by foreign medical societies with honorary membership as much as any other American. In 1874 he was president of the medical congress that assembled in this city. In his specialty as an oculist he was a recognized authority the world over.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY.
ROSSER & MCCARTHY,
 Proprietors.

MONDAY EVE., OCT. 8, 1888.

THE Republicans think they have hatched a nice little scheme, but it won't work. The Democrats are not going to trade Mr. Paynter off for Cleveland votes. Cleveland's not needing any votes in Kentucky, and it would be all the same if he was. The Democrats of Mason don't trade.

I WILL not vote for the entire abolition of direct taxation, nor can the gentleman find a wise government or a wise head of finance in any foreign country that is in favor of taking all duties from whisky and tobacco. We should be immeasurably and insufferably foolish if we abolish these taxes. I am against it.

These words were uttered by Senator Hawley prior to the Chicago convention. That convention declared in favor of "free whisky and tobacco." Mr. Hawley is one of the Republican leaders of this country, but he is not saying much for Harrison and Morton. His silence is significant. Evidently he does not favor his party's platform and is doing nothing for his party's ticket.

THERE are 3,400 uncanceled mortgages upon real estate in Clermont County, Ohio. The Sun, of Batavia, says: "This is an average of 244 to each township. In other words 244 farms and lots in each township in Clermont County are under mortgage. The total amount of mortgages upon Clermont County real estate amounts to more than $2,500,000. At the same time the Republicans are trying to show how a high protective tariff benefits the farmers."

There is food for abundant thought in the above item. The farmers of Clermont ought to be able to make "both ends meet." It looks like a little more "protection" would land them in the poor house.

THE price of labor is not controlled by a tariff law further than what demand is thereby made for it. No one measures the wages by the profits he makes. It makes no difference whether a man is making 10 or 100 per cent. profit, he no more pays the employe more than he is compelled to pay in the market at the place of hiring than he pays the farmer more for his wheat and pork than it commands in the market. He is not in business for that purpose and does not do business that way. He gets his labor in the market and at the market price, the same as he does the various materials and products that he uses.

All the statistics in the world cannot prove that labor is benefited by protection. The experience in all branches of business everywhere shows it to be otherwise—and that cannot be contradicted.

Republicans Knocked Out.

City elections were held at Newport and Covington Saturday and at both places a sweeping Democratic victory was won.

In Covington the Democrats elected every man on the main ticket, eight out of nine school trustees and seven of the nine councilmen.

Newport usually goes Republican, but the Democrats elected Mayor, Clerk, Treasurer and most of the rest of the ticket. The interest taken in the election was intense, says the correspondent of the Commercial Gazette. The fight was a warm one throughout, and the Democratic victory is significant.

The Democrats of that section are all right, and ready for the fray in November.

Two Manufacturers' Opinions.

Mr. Buford, a manufacturer of Rock Island, Ill., says:

There is not one article that we make that is in the least benefited by the tariff. On the contrary almost everything that we buy is enhanced by the tariff, and, of course, our customers in turn have to pay more for what they buy of us. Almost every manufacturer in the west labors under this disadvantage. We ship a large amount of our products abroad, where we have to compete with foreign makers.

The manager of the Deere & Co. Plow Works, at Moline, Ill., says:

The cost of every implement turned out by this house is enhanced 15 to 25 per cent. by the present tariff, with no compensating benefit.

These western establishments make plows, cultivators, corn planters, hay presses, mowers, reapers, wagons, harvesters, the various agricultural implements, stoves, boilers, engines, etc. And they are not protected. The lumber they use, the iron, steel, paint and every other article that enters into the manufacture of their goods, except that of brain and muscle, comes to their doors loaded with a tariff duty which they must pay. They have grown and flourished, not by reason of a tariff but in spite of it. If they can get their material free of duty could they not pay better wages, put more money into their pockets, and sell their goods cheaper to the farmer? With no protection to their business and paying a protection in all the material they use they have made the greatest advancement in all the industries in the country. Further comment is unnecessary.

POLITICAL TOPICS.

Hallam's Speech at the Court House. More Recruits from the Republican Ranks.

Hon. T. F. Hallam's speech at the court house Saturday night was one of the most able and convincing arguments in favor of the Democratic cause that has been delivered in this city during the campaign. The house was comfortably crowded, many ladies being present. Mr. Hallam spoke for nearly two hours, devoting his time to the issues involved in the contest. The close attention he received throughout shows how interested his hearers were in his remarks.

Although the Republicans were repeatedly notified that Mr. Hallam would gladly divide time with any one they might select, yet they failed to respond. The Republican elector was in the house, and was invited to discuss the issues with Mr. Hallam, but declined. The Republicans don't seem to hanker after joint discussions any more. Nothing else seemed to satisfy them in the beginning of the campaign. They have found out that where joint discussions are held the fallacy of their arguments are promptly exposed. The Democrats are anxious that the people should be thoroughly posted on the issues involved in the contest, and there is a significance in the Republicans avoiding joint discussions.

Major Burchette and Judge Thomas spoke at Greenup Saturday.

The tide is still setting our way, but the Democracy of this district are reminded that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. We cannot win by idly folding our hands. We must be up and going.—Flemingsburg True Blue Democrat.

Ed. Gaddis and Linn Gilliland, formerly of Ripley, have come out for Cleveland and Thurman. They belong to two of the oldest and most ardent Republican families of that place. Mr. Gaddis says: "He will not vote with a party that, when the people ask for cheaper food and clothing, offers them free whisky."

Mr. John M. Hunt, who recently returned from New York, says two of the large dry goods men with whom his firm deals, told him they intended voting for Cleveland and Thurman in November, and that it would be their first Democratic vote. They were life-long Republicans.

The National Democratic Campaign Committee received several more remittances Friday from Republicans who state their intention of voting for Cleveland, Thurman and tariff reform. They think the people should have relief from war taxation.

He will then return to jail to serve out the rest of his three years' term. The respite is on account of illness.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE

—OF—

A Valuable Scott County Farm, TOBACCO LAND, &c.

As Administrator of Dr. C. J. Blackburn, deceased, I will sell to the highest bidder, on

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 24th,

1888, at 12 o'clock M., on the premises, two miles north of White Sulphur, Scott County, Ky., one-half mile from the Stamping Ground and Frankfort Turnpike, the old homestead, Warwick, containing more or less, subject to survey. Nearly all in grass, except about fifty acres already this fall seeded to wheat and rye, which advantage the purchaser will get without charge, forty acres in valuable timber, sufficient to furnish lumber to build tobacco barns and other improvements on the land when cleared will be virgin soil for tobacco, and there is also about forty acres of cleared land that has been in grass more than thirty years that can not be excelled for the growth of the finest quality of tobacco. Also a great deal of sound locust timber. The improvements consist of a substantial old stone mansion with seven rooms, also servants' houses, smoke houses, hen house, stable, crib, sheds, etc., with a large cistern filled with clear drinking water; large garden, apple orchard &c.; about three-fourths mile of stone fence, and only about two miles from North Elkhorn Creek; convenient to mills, churches, schools, &c.; two miles from the celebrated Catholic school, The Sisters of Visitation, near White Sulphur, on the Georgetown and Frankfort Turnpike. Good judges are of the opinion that the timber and tobacco land will pay for the whole farm in two years.

250 ACRES.

The taxes in Scott County are not nearly so high as in many of the surrounding counties, and as the farm is expected to sell at a bargain, a thrifty farmer can make money in the purchase.

TERMS—One-half cash, the balance in one or two years, with 6 per cent. interest. Possession given March 1st, 1889. For further information address,

ELLEY BLACKBURN, Adm'r, Georgetown, Ky., or Newton & John Northcutt, on the premises, White Sulphur, Ky.

Also fourteen shares of Stamping Ground and Frankfort Turnpike stock.

IMPRISONMENT FOR FINE.

Important Decision Recently Rendered by the Court of Appeals.

In the case of Berry against Sheehan, Jailer of Franklin County, the Court of Appeals recently handed down the following important decision:

First—A respite of the Governor staying the collection of a judgment for a fine, except commissions, fees, costs, etc., does not prevent collection of that part of the judgment to which the Attorney for the Commonwealth is entitled, and to enforce its collection the defendant may still be imprisoned.

The appellant being in jail under a capias
pro fine, the Governor respite all the fine except commissions, fees, costs, etc. The Jailer refusing to release the appellant, this action was instituted against him to recover damages for the alleged unlawful detention.
Held—That the Governor did not in express terms or by implication respite more of the fine than there was going to the State, and for that reason the Jailer was justified in refusing to release the appellant from prison.
Second—The Attorney for the Commonwealth has a vested interest in so much of a judgment for a fine as is allowed him by law, and of this he cannot be deprived by the Governor, or by any legislative action had after judgment had been obtained.

The inquiry in this case, however, is not whether the Governor has the power to respite as to the whole amount of the fine,
but whether he has done so.

Death of a Native of Mason County.

News has been received of the death of Baldwin Berry Gill, a native of this county, at his home in Grundy County, Mo., on the 26th ult., in the seventy-eighth year of his age.

Deceased was an uncle of Mr. George R. Gill, of this city. He was for a long time a resident of this county, where he had a host of friends and neighbors who held him in very great estimation.

He was a soldier of the Confederate army under General Sterling Price, enlisting when over fifty years old; was in the battle of Springfield and participated in other engagements with his command.
He was for a considerable time a prisoner of war and he and his family suffered many hardships in the civil conflict.

Stock, Field and Farm.

The Irish potato crop throughout the State is reported about 40 per cent.
short.

It is estimated that over 500 acres of tobacco in Nicholas County will be a complete loss on account of the heavy frosts.

The damage by frost to the tobacco in Bourbon County is estimated to be equivalent to a total loss of 15 per cent.
The loss in Robertson County is estimated at 50 per cent.

Kentucky Prince will stand at $300 next season. Among those of his get who have entered or have knocked hard at the door of the 2:20 list this year are Guy 2:12½, Spofford 2:13½, and Cypress
2:22.

Good judges of what they have seen of the tobacco crop in Harrison County, estimate that over 400 acres have been damaged by the frost in that county. All on the low lands will be a total loss, and the top leaves are killed on the high lands. Much of it was cut and left in the fields, and was badly hurt.

In Kenton and Boone counties about one-half of the tobacco crop was standing or laying on the field and of that probably one-half is ruined. Some crops standing in the field were killed, while others were not greatly injured. The increased price on account of a short supply will make up for the tobacco ruined although it will be hard on some planters who have lost all their crop.—Exchange.

Mrs. TAMAR HOWARD, wife of Charles Howard, janitor at the K. C. Depot, died a few days ago of pneumonia. Deceased was a member of one of the oldest and most respectable colored families in the city. Her funeral was largely attended.

THE Cincinnati Commercial Gazette says the completion of the Maysville and Big Sandy will mark the inauguration of a new and important era in that city's railroad history. The Gazette adds that the name of the road will probably be changed to "The Chesapeake and Ohio Valley."

MR. AND MRS. G. S. JUDD has sold to Mrs. Bettie B. Smoot their undivided one-sixth interest in three pieces of real estate in this city for $2,967.97 cash.
The property referred to is a lot fronting 31 feet 6 inches on south side of Third street between Limestone and Plum; another lot fronting 24 feet 8 inches on north side of Second between Wall and Short and the other is the business house on the northeast corner of Second and Sutton.

THE Contracting and Building Company has transferred to Horeac Schermerhorn and Edward H. Pardee, of New York, all the lands and rights of way purchased since April 1, 1886, in the counties through which the Maysville and Big Sandy Railroad runs. Also the lands and rights of way upon which the approaches to the new bridge at Cincinnati are constructed. But all this is to be conveyed back to said company in case the plan for the reorganization of the Chesapeake and Ohio is abandoned.

A WELL-KNOWN Kentuckian recently from the West writes of Santa Fe:
"We visited the old Cathedral, Indian stores, saw the Mexican houses and all the places of interest in that celebrated city. It was really the most interesting place we saw—all the others have too much freshness about them—all modern mushrooms, all new paint, mansard roofs and bay windows till you get tired and wish to see one of the old-time houses of Maysville, which approach somewhat to the antique to be seen in Mexico. I am not at all pleased with this 'glorious climate,' wouldn't swap 'Old Kaintuck'
for it any day."

THE Court of Appeals recently affirmed
the case of Ruggles against Tannian taken up from Lewis County. The opinion by Judge Bennett says:

First—In this case, which involves the question whether a fence which appellee has removed was on appellant's land, as the ap-pellant's deed, by the calls of which he is bound, calls to commence at a known and well-defined corner, and to run thence so many feet and inches to appellee's corner, and it appears that to run said distance from the first named corner the fence in controversy will not be reached, but will be left on appellee's land, the appellant has failed to manifest a proper title.

Second—Although appellant has been in possession up to and including the fence in controversy for more than fifteen years, yet as the evidence shows that his possession has been amicable and not adverse, he has not acquired title by possession.

J. Pugh for appellee.

THE FORMER'S DEFIANT ATTITUDE TOWARD THE LATTER

PROBABLY THE NATURAL OUTCOME OF CIRCUMSTANCES.

France Registering All Foreigners to Preserve Military Secrets—Bloodhounds to Hunt Down the Whitechapel Fiend. William to Be Grandly Received in Rome—Foreign.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The defiant attitude of France toward Italy is perhaps natural considering circumstances that do not need recapitulation, but whether the republic can afford the luxury of snubbing her southern neighbor on every possible pretext is very doubtful. The French despise the Italians from a military point of view, as it might be said they look contemptuously on all other people in other points of view, without, however, having convinced the world of their general pre-eminence, but the galling fact remains that the French wrath has to be tempered with a great deal of respect for the more formidable Italian allies.

It is quite probable that the endeavors now being made to negotiate a new commercial treaty between the two countries will be defeated on account of the childish temper constantly exhibited by France, and trade remain in its present unsatisfactory state to the detriment of both nations. Several Italian chambers of commerce have taken the initiative in the matter of renewing the treaty heretofore existing, but their advances have been without effect as yet. President Carnot's decree, regulating immigration, has been received by the majority with many congratulations, as tending to check the influx of Germans, who, as Belgians, Swiss and Alsacians are far more numerous in the land of their mortal enemies than the latter dream of, but if enforced to the letter it will affect in a far greater degree the Italians who fairly swarm in the south of France, and have in a great measure replaced native laborers, especially in the cities.

Not one in a hundred of these Italian workmen can attain to a permanent residence in the country except by evading the requirements of the law. They cannot change their abode without renewing their declaration of identity and giving proof of their ability to obtain regular and remunerative labor, the mayor of the new commune being in all cases the deciding authority.

The Count De Nigra, the Italian ambassador at Vienna, denies uttering the remark attributed to him that a war is imminent, the result of which through Italy would be beaten, would be the gain to that country of Savoy and Nice. Signor Crispien looks longingly on the two provinces, but he will await the decision to be arrived at during the coming visit of the German monarch to Rome. Exasperated France sees enemies all around her. She is sure that Belgium is gravitating toward Germany. Le Temps discovers the vilest insinuations against France in Signor Crispien's letter to the pope, and for a novelty the country appears to have a real grievance in the meddling air with which Italy inquires into her policy in Tunis. The boy is considered as under French protection, though it is difficult to see what business either of the two nations has in the country, and there is no denying that the situation there is threatening.

Foreigners Must Register in France. PARIS, Oct. 8.—The registration of foreigners, in accordance with the decree recently issued by President Carnot, commenced today at the prefecture of police. The cases of 256 foreigners were settled. So far 1,000 foreigners have been registered. This action of France follows the example of Germany, and is probably a military necessity for the protection of the secrets of the war department against German spies. Events very clearly demonstrate that it is Germany's endeavor to put the affairs of the rest of Europe in such order that she can again undertake the task of reducing the power of France. Frederick's diary is an open revelation of this settled policy of the imperial German house.

Still at Sea. LONDON, Oct. 8.—No further arrests have been made, and the identity of the Whitechapel assassin is apparently as far off as ever. The use of bloodhounds having been suggested, Chief Commissioner of Police Sir Charles Warren has yielded to popular clamor and consented to their efficacy. Besides, they are as likely to seize upon some inoffensive citizen who may be in their course as the murderer, should they be able to follow his trail in the streets of London. The excitement in the neighborhood of the 'murders' is unabated, and is intensified by innumerable rumors that have no basis or fact.

The Kaiser in Rome. ROME, Oct. 8.—The Emperor William will have a grand reception upon his arrival here. Decorations are numerous and a general illumination is part of the program. There will be a grand municipal ball in the three palaces of the capitol.

Battle in Afghanistan. SMILA, Oct. 8.—The troops of the ameer of Afghanistan have defeated the forces of Ishak Khan at Tashkurzan.

Carnot Starts on a Tour. PARIS, Oct. 8.—President Carnot has started on a tour to Lyons, Annecy and Dijon.

The Second Jury Disagrees. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—For a second time in the history of Kate Claxton against the Continental hotel proprietors, J. E. Kingsley & Company to recover damages for the loss of her diamonds, the jury failed to agree and were discharged. Judge Thayer told the men on the jury that he was very sorry they could not come to some agreement, but that as they seemed so positive, he did not think there was any use of keeping them together any longer. The foreman of the jury afterwards told a reporter that the jury stood nine to three in favor of the defendant.

Poisoned at a Wake. MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 8.—A special from Racine, Wis., says that three persons drank embalming fluid at wake in that city in mistake for beer. One of the victims, James Payton, will probably die. The others are very sick, but will recover.

MISS ANNE LOTHROP,

Daughter of the Ex-Russian Minister, Weds a Russian Nobleman.

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—The marriage of Baron Barthold Hoyningen Huene, first lieutenant of the Regiment of Chevaliers Gardes of her majesty, the empress of all the Russias, to Miss Anne Lothrop, the eldest daughter of George F. N. Lothrop, recently minister to Russia, took place at St. Paul's church Friday evening. The edifice was filled with the friends of the family. Following the ceremony Mrs. Lothrop held a brilliant reception.

Baron Huene is the descendant of a German family long settled in Russia. He is thirty years old and handsome. Miss Lothrop is very beautiful, and her father is one of Detroit's millionaires, besides being the leader of the Michigan bar. The betrothal occurred only a few weeks ago in London, and the young couple have been acquainted but a comparatively short time. The bride does not speak Russian, nor the bridegroom English, and it is surmised that the wooing progressed in either German or French, as circumstances seemed to suggest would be most fitting, or in the wooers' part most successful.

Booth, a man who was in the habit of paying visits to the women with whom Hickman was living. The murderer was taken from his home an hour afterward by a mob of seventy-five men and lynched.

Cooked to Death.

DENVER, Col., Oct. 8.—Samuel C. Pratt met with a terrible death yesterday in the hot springs at Nevada. He went down to take a bath, and was found a few hours later lying parboiled upon the bank. He died in a short time. It is believed that he plunged into the water, not knowing its intense heat.

Fell and Curtis Fight at Duluth.

DULUTH, Minn., Oct. 8.—A fight of five rounds between Fell and Curtis was given to the former Friday night, because Curtis would not fight fairly. He repeatedly threw Fell in order to lose the fight and thus save himself from receiving further punishment. Fell was earnest from the start and pounded Curtis furiously. The audience of 1,000 was in the worst uproar ever seen in Duluth, and a free fight was narrowly averted.

Italy threatens to subject French schools to inspection in Tunis if France persists in an inspection of Italian schools.

The North German Gazette, and most of the German papers, contrast Emperor William's cordial welcome to Vienna with his formal reception at St. Petersburg.

The North German Gazette says that the statement that Prince Bismarck threatened to resign unless Professor Geffick was prosecuted is an "imputing, lying invention."

The Political Correspondence, of Vienna, says that the duke of Nassau has obtained Emperor William's support of the duke's candidature for the throne of Luxembourg, which, however, is to remain independent.

The Moosish government has refused to comply with Portugal's demand that the Portugal flag be saluted in preparation for an insult to the flag at Port Laria. Portugal threatens to send a man-of-war to obtain satisfaction.

The common council of Berlin has adopted the motion to vote 500,000 marks to found a benevolent institute in memory of Emperor Frederick, and also a motion to open a public fund for the erection of a monument to Frederick in Berlin.

The bank statement, made public about 11:30, was very unfavorable, showing a decrease in the reserves of $1,338,675. This added materially in weakening the market.
